

The Reptile Call

Lyrics and music by Matt Levin /bridge by Burchie Green

Alligators, turtles lizards and snakes,
They're all reptiles; they've got what it takes:
It takes a backbone and scales on your skin. You've got to lay eggs, that's the shape you're in

Chorus- when you're a reptile, give me a smile

When you're a reptile, movin with style

Some of them walk, and some of them crawl, listen, listen to the reptile call.

If you like deserts, jungles and caves, you're skins pretty scaly and it warmth that you crave

If you came out of an egg but you're not a bird, you're a reptile that's the word

Chorus-

bridge: How about the dinosaurs, they're reptiles too

They walked, they crawled, they swam and they flew.

They're the biggest creatures that ever walked here.

They ruled the earth for millions of years millions of years

Alligators, lizards, turtles and snakes,

They're all reptiles, they've got what it takes

You've got to breathe air and like the sun on your skin. You've got to be cold blooded that's the shape you're in
